

Serial numbers

The serial numbers of the frame and engine uniquely identify your motorcycle and are required to register it. They may also be necessary to order replacement parts.

The frame number is stamped on the right side of the steering column.

The engine number is stamped on the right side of the crankcase.

You should make note of these numbers and keep them in a safe place.

